

Sprucelands Community Guidelines

At Sprucelands we take pride in our community. Our staff works hard to make this camp a friendly, safe, and fun place for all. But, we can't do it alone. We need your help, as a part of our community, to guarantee our staff, campers and horses a positive experience at Sprucelands. Please review our community guidelines and talk them over with your parents before you check in at camp.

Our Community has Character

- Respect yourself, your fellow campers, and all Sprucelands staff members. Be respectful of others' personal property; use only respectful, appropriate language.
- Accept new experiences, new horses, and new friends with an open mind - you will meet different and interesting people at camp.
- Care about the feelings of others. Stop gossip before it starts; choose to make others feel good about themselves.
- Help others. Share barn chores with a friend. Pitch in when your cabin does morning community service jobs.
- Take responsibility for your actions and words. Make safe, thoughtful choices at all times. Be kind and caring.
- Make our camp community the best it can be.

Our Community is Safe

- Keep Sprucelands a drug and alcohol free environment.
- Honor the do-not-bring list on the "What to Bring" list
- After lights out, stay in your village. Walking around camp at night is dangerous and irresponsible.
- Be appropriate in your relationships with campers of the opposite sex.
- Listen to your counselors, instructors, CITs, Hill Parents, and other staff who are here to keep you healthy and safe.

Please make sure that you understand these guidelines - they are here to make sure you have a positive experience at Sprucelands Camp. Understand that if you violate these guidelines in a way that threatens your safety, or the well-being of any other member of our community, you may be sent home from Sprucelands.
